

News Snapshots Of the Week

In the most unusual election the United States has experienced in many years, when even up to the last minute the uncertainty of the situation was apparent to the closest political observers, each party claimed gains. However, despite the uncertainty of the outcome, 15,000,000 went to the polls, each feeling certain his man would win. The war in Europe was hottest in Roumania, where the Cernavoda bridge over the Danube was destroyed; the sinking of the British steamer Marina without warning with Americans in crew troubled our state department, while the undersea merchantman Deutschland returned to our shores. An armored railway car built in twenty days was delivered to the United States government. New York's harbor police have been fitted out with a floating station house. The Salvation army offered up a twenty-four hour prayer for the recovery of their chief in America, Eva Booth.

THE MOST FAMOUS ROAD IN AMERICA

The accompanying illustration is of the road from Lexington to Concord in Massachusetts. Over this road, now a fine state boulevard, the British regiment marched on the morning of April 19, 1775, after their massacre of the colonists on Lexington Green, to Concord in search of the ammunition hidden there by the Boston colonists.

While the British searched for the stores of powder and shot, minute men hastened from the surrounding country. A company of them gathered at the bridge over Concord river and here Americans for the first time were ordered to fire on British troops. Defeated at the bridge, the British retreated over the road to Lexington. The minute men attacked them from trees, fences, rocks and buildings, the whole distance to Lexington, where the British were joined by reinforcements and saved from complete destruction. The British lost two hundred and seventy-three men in their retreat over this road and the colonists, forty-nine.

This road is now a part of one of the fine state boulevards that extend from the Atlantic Ocean to the New York State boundary and is attractive to tourists from all parts of the country, not only on account of its natural scenic beauty, but because of its historic associations as well.

—The meeting of the Christian church is in great progress, with interest growing. Evangelist Clutter is a strong, logical preacher. His well prepared discourses, many of which are illustrated by large charts, appeal to the thinking class of the community. There have been 40 added to the church, with prospects good for many more. One thing of interest in that many of the prominent men of the community are added to the number of converts. Last Sunday was a great day, with 247 in Sunday school, with many more at the morning service. A special "Temperance program" was given by the school, which was enjoyed by all. Following the morning service, a basket dinner was given by the ladies of New Point and vicinity. The tables groaned under the supply of eatables, such as the ladies always furnish. All who were here can testify that the ladies are good cooks. Evangelist Clutter has evangelized extensively over the United States and Canada, and in all his travels, he says he has found no better place than Holt county. NERO.
